OR THE ENUTSPORD BILL! be Covernment Folley to Be Challenged by the Liberale in Parliament-The Protect of the Colonial Legislature-The People of Newfoundland Extint. on, March 20.—The gravity of the New-Lorson, Maren No.—Are gravity of the New-feundland question only begins to dawn on the country. In restorday evening's debate in the House of Lords the leaders on both sides avoided as far as possible touching probable complications endangering the peace of the empire, yet they could not avoid imparting an impression that developments are likely which may give rise to serious trouble. Lord Balismay give rise to serious trouble. Lord Salisbury, in the gravest of recent Ministerial deliverances, weighing every word with care, admitted that it was difficult to look without grave apprehension to the future, in view of the strong feeling in France against the alightest relaxation even of the more extreme and unresponsible of her claims. Lord Salisbury refrained from disclosing what inducements would be offered to M. Bibot, the French foreign Minister, to consent to an arrangement satisfactory to Newsent to an arrangement satisfactory to New-foundland. He was equally reticent on the estion whether armed coercion would be ed to enforce the Knutsford bill. The island, he said, had been the sport of historic mistor-tune; it was an illustration of the continuity

in our ment in order immediately to challenes the Government policy, but was induced to postpone his motion until Mr. Smith has presented the statement which he promised to make on Monday next. Lord Rimberley's partial assent to Lord Rulesford's proposed measure does not represent either the feeling of the Liberals or the policy of the Liberal feeders. The tenor of communications exchanged to-day by Mr. Gladstone. Mr. Morley, and other Liberals points to strengous opposition on behalf of the Newfoundland Government and had Sir J. P. Hennessy moved to adjourn he would have had a following sufficiently strong to show the Government the opinion of Parliament astting against the bill, as a 100 stringent measure. If Mr. Smith's reply on Monday does not meet the wishes of the Liberals the Government will have to face, in addition to the Parliamentary resistance, a strong pressure among the Conservatives to geneate the delay which the Newfoundland Legislature asks before passing the bill. Lebby forecasts to-night agree that the Government will pause until the delegates of the Newfoundland Legislature who are coming to London, have had ample time to be heard.

The bill provides for its own suspension if the Newfoundland Legislature passes measures necessary to secure the temporary modus event. The Liberal leaders will advise the delegates to accede to this, promising to support. Newfoundland Legislature passes measures necessary to secure the temporary modus event. The Liberal leaders will advise the delegates to accede to this, promising to support. Newfoundland in demanding that the final settlement include the withdrawal of the French from the Newfoundland coast. Opinions gleaned in the lobbles of Parliament from members of all parties agree that it is impossible to permit the Government to coerce the colonists. To-morrow's issue of the Speaker reflects the general feeling in saying that it would relieve both sides of embarrassment if the Newfoundlanders shipped their Governor aboard the mail boat and hauled down th only one feature of the question at issue.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., March 20,-The people here are excited over the proposed treatment of the celony by the imperial Government, as shown and the proposed arbitration with France of only one feature of the question at issue.

Colonial Secretary Bond, in a speech in the Legislature, declared that "the conduct of the British Government had all the appearance of littleness and deceit," and that "truthfulness was habitual with the British Government, for Bir James Fergusson had told a falsehood in the House of Commona last year concerning the modus vivendi." The resolutions proposed by Mr. Bond in the Assembly charged the British Government with a "gross breach of its solemn obligations," and through out his remarks there were frequent charges of bad faith against Lord Knittsfond. The St. Johns Herald says:

"It is very apparent that Mr. Bond seeks to create an anti-British sentiment and to replace it by a desire for closer relations with the United States, and it is a question how far his conduct is permissible in one holding his office.

"When a man holds office under the Queen's representatives he is natural expected to refrain from expressions and sentiments of a treasonable tings, or in any wise calculated to create public dissatisfaction with the powers that be," treasonable tinge, or in any wise calculated to create public dissatisfaction with the powers that be."

Heterring to the breach in the Newfoundland Government over the trade convention with the United States the Herald says:

"The attitude of Bir William Whiteway toward Bond's treaty negotiations, and more particularly towards the resolutions passed by the Legislature, is a very peculiar as well as important one. It is quite evident that the Premier does not believe in Bond's treaty.

"In 1885 he bitterly opposed an attempt made by Bir Ambrose Shea to secure even a better arrangement than Bond's is believed to be, and publicly declared only a few days ago that his views have not changed since the year referred to. He said not a word in the House concerning the resolutions denouncing the British Government, and in party caucus he actually moved an amendment to the proposed resolutions, but was cutvoted. His silence, his sullen demeanor, his very movement, in fact, whenever the question is before the Assembly denote that he is wholly opposed to a course of conductavidently thrust upon him by his colleagues. Buch a condition could hardly occur outside this colony, for elsewhere under the circumstances either the Premier or his colleagues would resign."

LONDON, March 20.—An election for member of Parliament was held in Aston Manor to-day constituency caused by the death on Feb. 28 of Mr. George Kynoch. Conservative. The voting resulted in favor of Capt. Grice Hutchinson, spleeted by the Conservatives and Liberal Unionists as the Unionist candidate. He received 5.510 votes to 2,332 votes police for Mr. W. Phipson Beals. Q. C., the nomines of the Gladstonian party.

In the previous election Mr. Kynoch received 3.490 votes to 2,718 for Mr. H. G. Reid, the Home Rule candidate.

The Conservatives are surprised and inbilant over the enormous increase of the Test vote at Aston Manor, and the Liberate are correspondingly astonished and depressed. It is explained that the large majority due to the fact that the vertingmen in the large stabilishments in the borough received their wares to-day, though the successful candidate contributed very largely to the heavy vote cast for him. constituency caused by the death on Peb. 28 of

RYAN AND MRS. EDELMUTH

NOT AT THE COMPTON HOUSE.

Mew She Came to Sign Away Nor Dower Eights in Lawyor Eughes's Office-Co-re spendent Ryan's Changed Mandwriting The defence in the Edelmuth divorce case, before Chief Judge Clement and a jury in Brecklyn, is a flat-footed denial of almost everything alleged by the husband. Michael Ryan, the ruddy-faced co-respondent, denied yesterday on the stand that he had ever been guilty of any indiscretion with the stout gray-baired defendant. Mrs. Kate Ryan, the corespondent's wife testified that she had been married fourteen years. On Oct. 16, the day that the plaintiff's witnesses testified Byan was in the Compton House between 11 A. M. and noon with Mrs. Edelmuth, her husband was in bed until 11 o'crock, when she called him. He baid a bill at his liquor store and stayed around the house and store all day.

Michael J. Ryan, the co-respondent, testified that he had never received any notes from Mrs. Edelmuth, and was never improperly intimate with her. On October 16, the day he was said been at the Compton House, he was the Compton House register in which Mr. Edelmuth alleges that Byan and Mrs. Edelmuth were registered as "John S. Clark and wife." He asked Ryan to write "John S. Clark and wife" on a slip of paper and also his name. "Michael J. Hyan." The witness wrote as directed, but he sloped his letters to the left. The writing in the register slopes to the right. So did the letters in Hyan's signature to the answer in Edelmuth's suit against him for $10,000 damages, and so did his signature in a copy of "Robinson Orusce" which the co-respondent once gave the defendant.

Mrs. Edelmuth had sworn in opposition to witnesses for the plaintiff that the frizzed bang of gray hair on her forehead was never worn lower than she wore it in court. A photograph of the defendant taken three years ago, was offered in evidence to disprove his. The pleture also went to the jury after Lawyer Wernberg, at the Judge's suggestion, carefully obliterated certain private memorands on the back.

Oct 27.

Lawyer William Hughes, for Mr. Edelmuth, was called as a witness in rebuttal. The defendant had testified that Mr. Hughes, while the divorce proceedings were pending invited her to eome to his office and induced her to sign a quit claim deed of her half interest in some property in consideration of an allowance of $12 weekly from her husband's estate during her life. She hed no lawyer then, and her present counsel, Mr. Patterson, had characterized Mr. Hughes's conduct as unprocessional.

during her ilfe. She had no lawyer then, and her present counsel, Mr. Patterson, had charsoterized Mr. Hughes's condact as unprofessional.

"Mrs. Edelmuth came to my office first soon after the summons and complaint were served upon her" said Mr. Hughes. "I told her I couldn't talk to her unless she had a lawyer. She said her husband could have his diveres; that she did not want a lawyer. Mrs. Anstell, who was with her. told her that it was her duty to herself and her children if she was ingreen to defend herself. The agreement was drawn up at an interview after that. Mrs. Edelmuth was willing, in consideration of $12 a week during her lifetime andher husband's consent to provide for the children, to sign over her half interest in the real estate. She complimented me as an honest lawyer, and said she did not need to hire a lawyer. I told her she must be represented by counsel before she signed the agreement, but she answered that she did not want to pay for a lawyer; her son-in-law. Ben irauss, would do. We sent for Ben Krauss and the agreement was then read to her and ahe signed it. She also signed a quit claim deed."

"How much do you think half of the yearly rents of the real estate would amount to?"

"After the payment of taxes and all expenses. I think between $800 and $900," said the lawyer witness.

"That is considerably more than $12 a week, isn't it?" proceeded Mr. Patterson.

"Yes," was the answer.

"She parted with something in meney then when she signed the agreement in your office?"

Yes, was the same. How here the present in the present of the grand and she signed the advantage lie?" asked Mr. Patterson.

Mr. Hernberg protested against the question as involving a matter of opicion, but Judge Clement said he would allow it. He asid he thought it only fair to Mr. Hughes that he should be allowed to make the explanation.

I think it was an even up thing, sanwered Mr. Highes.

"Do you think now sir," proceeded Mr. Patterson, beverely." under your oath, that if I sign a paner giving her husband a divorce, that she couldn't sign any paper giving a divorce except a confession, and that she couldn't sign such a paner in my office."

"Mr. Hughes," said Mr. Patterson unex-pectedly, "did you ever suggest that you'd like her to go to the Compton House?"

"No, sir." said Mr. Hughes with emphasis and blushing. "No. sir." said Mr. Hughes wit and blushing. The lawyers will sum up to-day.

The Cutler "cane" rush has taken place, Is: stead of a cane a large placeard with "91" upon it was brought into the gymnasium by the members of that class. The classes of '92 and '93 had assembled in a body. After one unsuccessful attempt, the placeard was taken from '91 and torn into pieces. The shattered dignity of the senior class will soon reasest itself in another rush.

When William Freeland, an instructor in Columbia Grammar Behool, left that institution to found Harvard School, he took with him about twenty-five of his old pupils which formed the nucleus of what is now a presperous and growing school.
